Message from the President

A beautiful new sculpture was installed on our campus this summer. It's called "Milan's Helix," and it was made possible through the generosity of Sam and Aruna Gambhir. Their son Milan, a member of the class of 2016, was diagnosed with glioblastoma brain cancer in the summer of 2013. Later that fall, faculty member Mikael Meyer '96 was diagnosed with the same type of brain cancer. Unbelievably, just two months later, Andy Nguyen '17 received the same diagnosis. While all three fought valiantly against the cancer, Andy, Mikael, and Milan each passed away in the second semester of 2015. It was an incredibly hard time for the entirety of the school community. I was blessed to be able to walk in some way with each of these three families through the journey. I saw the courage and grace with which each of them fought their battle, and how heartbreaking it was for each family to endure.

When the Gambhir's initially approached us about putting a sculpture on campus to commemorate these three, I wasn't quite sure what to think. I didn't know how I felt about a visible reminder of such pain placed prominently on our campus. But the vision that the Gambhir's brought—supported by artist Roger Stoller who created the sculpture—was a tribute to what remarkable examples all three were, and are, to living out what it means to be "men for and with others." The work of art is a symbol of strength, not one of pain.

The central image of the sculpture is of one person reaching down to lend a hand to another. It is that image that the Gambhir's wanted to capture in the art. They wanted to remember how many people reached out to support Andy, Mikael, and Milan during the journey, and to capture how well each of these three modeled that generosity of spirit to each of us during their all-too-brief time here on Earth.

The sculpture is a helix—spiraling up in a beautiful image of ascendancy, a reminder of how important we are to one another, and what it looks like to be a person who is for and with others. It embodies the Ignatian value of cura personalis—care for the individual, and it reminds me of what we learned from these three through the experience. Yes, I miss them each, and I can't claim to understand why they, their families, and the community went through that sorrow in the Spring of 2015, but I am enormously grateful for what I learned, and how they each, and the broader community, helped me and so many others to get through that time.

As this school year has gotten underway, I have sought each day to be grateful for all of the ways in which members of this community support one another. Whether that is a teacher spending extra time to help a student understand a concept, peer tutoring in our Academic Resource Center, a coach helping an athlete to hone his skills, robotics opening-up their facilities to help other schools, parent volunteers sharing of their time and treasure, or countless other ways, I am grateful.

We help to form some remarkable men for and with others here at Bellarmine, and the way in which we see that spirit lived out is a true gift. For that, I extend my gratitude to each of you.

Editor's Note

This issue of Bellarmine College Prep Magazine is the Annual Report of Giving edition. As the holiday season is upon us, this is an appropriate time to convey gratitude to those who support our school and its mission in many ways.

In the spirit of Thanksgiving, we are grateful to the many individuals, organizations, foundations, and companies whose generosity greatly assists in our ability to provide each student with such an exceptional educational experience. As you read the names listed within the Annual Report of Giving (reflecting gifts received July 1, 2017 through June 30, 2018), please know that we greatly appreciate the confidence placed in the school by each.

We are honored to continue our efforts to be good and faithful stewards of Bellarmine, as we endeavor to advance opportunities for our students who will go on to make a difference in the world. Indeed, there is much for which to be thankful.

May you and your families enjoy many blessings this Christmas season and always.

From the Principal's Office

This year I had the opportunity to rappel down the side of the Adobe Building in downtown San Jose as part of a fundraiser for Downtown Streets Team, an organization that works to end homelessness. Heights terrify me, but I kept telling myself that the crew would not let me fall, and that I could do it. On the day of the event, the team that checked out my harness and ultimately talked me over the ledge and down the building was amazing. Their calm demeanor, pleasant outlook, and professionalism allowed me to overcome my fears and remain calm as I dangled high above the street. Along the journey down the building, I repeated over and over, “I can do this.”

As educators, we are often called to be that supportive team for our students as they take risks throughout high school. We must challenge them to overcome their fears, and we must guide them as they make their way through Bellarmine. Each time I visit a classroom or stop by a game, the passion of our faculty members and coaches fills me with hope for our students. They routinely check in on each one of their students to ensure that they are understanding the concepts and learning the skills.

Wendy Crockett spends countless hours guiding her photography students through individualized projects as they search for just the right shot. Patrick McCrystle, Jimmy Kniffin, Peter Ferrari, and John Maloney cheer on each cross-country athlete as he makes his way over the three-mile rugged course. DeeDee Sullivan, Aaron Langerman, Matt Delateur, and Vern Cleary coach students throughout the day to ensure that they are ready for the next Speech and Debate tournament; and Math Department chair Dave Barone studies articles on math mindset to ensure that Bellarmine’s Math Department is doing all it can to engage students. The Ignatian Educators on our campus inspire our students each and every day.

The accomplishments of our students inspire me. Bellarmine students do not back away from challenging discussions, difficult projects, or tough competitions; in fact, they often run towards the challenge, and our community works together to support them along the way. Thank you for the different ways that you support the Bellarmine community to do this important work.

Sincerely,

Faculty in Service to Others

It is 5:15 on a chilly Friday morning as a group of five Bellarmine faculty members meet on campus before heading over to prepare breakfast for 40-60 homeless men, some of them veterans, at the LifeMoves Montgomery Street Inn located in downtown San Jose. The programs of LifeMoves teach homeless adults the life skills they need to find a rapid and lasting return to stable housing and long-term self-sufficiency.

Early last year, faculty member Vern Cleary invited colleagues to join a small crew of four that had been making breakfast at the homeless shelter since 2009, usually once per month. After securing a grant to assist with food costs from Catholic Relief Services, Cleary was able to expand Bellarmine's involvement. "Sixteen new people signed-up, joining the four of us who have been doing it for a while," said Bellarmine president Chris Meyercord '88. "So, each of the four became the leader of a new group, and now we have crews making breakfast there once a week instead of once a month."

This service provided by Bellarmine faculty and staff members takes place throughout the school year, and as the homeless clients receive a warm meal, the volunteers feel that they receive much more than they give. "Jesus calls on us to accompany the poor and marginalized," said Cleary, a Bellarmine faculty member since 1999, "and when we serve others in this way, we come closer to God. It's a blessing."

"One gentleman shared recently that 'it's the best breakfast I've had since I can't remember,'" noted Lynnelle Bilsey, senior manager of Volunteer Programs at LifeMoves. "Several others, when asked recently, said 'can we have them come every day?' and 'what a treat.' For those at the shelter receiving the meal, it's not just the food that is important. The dignity with which students, faculty, and staff treat our clients at the shelter, and the positive interactions they experience during the meal, makes as meaningful an impact with them as the good food they enjoy."

In addition to the services provided by faculty and staff, Bellarmine students have been visiting Montgomery Street Inn as part of their immersion learning program in the fall. "The students spend an evening with our clients, sharing dinner with them and for the clients ... it's a wonderful opportunity for them to share their stories with the boys," noted Bilsey, who added, "Bellarmine students have also participated as Summer Adventure Camp volunteers with LifeMoves, working with the children's program at our Villa and Georgia Travis House shelters in San Jose serving families. Bellarmine students serve as role models for our youth and help lead educational and fun activities throughout the summer."

These are just among many ways members of the Bellarmine community put into action being men and women "for and with others."

Following an extensive search for the ideal candidate, Bellarmine College Preparatory has named Patrick Arnold '84 as its new Director of Development, effective January 2, 2019.

Arnold fills the position most recently held by David Holquin, now president of Justin-Siena High School in Napa. Arnold is currently CEO of Filice Insurance Agency in Moraga, where he has worked for the past 19 years. His sales experience includes being regional sales director at Oracle in the 1990s.

A graduate of U.C. Berkeley, Arnold is no stranger to Bellarmine, having been a respected football player as a student. He went on to be a three-year Letterman with CAL football, and a four-year Letterman for CAL rugby, the national champions in 1986 and 1988. He most recently served as vice chair of Bellarmine's Board of Regents, and he and his wife, Esther, have two daughters: Audrey and Ella. His father, Walt Arnold, was a respected Bellarmine football coach from 1974-1983.

"The opportunity to return to Bellarmine and serve is the culmination of a lifelong ambition," said Arnold. "I look forward to acknowledging Bellarmine's past and helping build its future."

In his notification to faculty and staff about the hiring, Bellarmine President Chris Meyercord '88 noted, "Pat is one of the most passionate alumni I have ever met, and he is deeply committed to our mission as a Catholic, Jesuit school. I know that we will be very well served by his work starting in 2019."

Arnold will work closely with Brian Adams, Vice President for Advancement, and report directly to the President.

Patrick Arnold '84 Named as Director of Development

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) announced that 23 Bellarmine College Preparatory seniors qualified as semifinalists in the 64th annual National Merit Scholarship Program. These young men will be considered for more than $31 million in National Merit Scholarships to be offered in 2019.

The group of approximately 16,000 semifinalists nationwide represent the highest-scoring students from each state, and less than one percent of U.S. high school seniors. Finalists in the competition will be announced in early 2019, with selection based upon academic record, participation in school and community activities, and demonstrated leadership ability, among other criteria. Some 7,500 Merit Scholarships will be awarded to finalists next spring.

According to the NMSC, the National Merit Scholarship Program, "honors individual students who show exceptional academic ability and potential for success in rigorous college studies."

ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY MISSION STATEMENT:

As a Catholic high school in the Jesuit tradition, Bellarmine College Preparatory is committed to serving God by educating our community about ecological stewardship and solidarity with creation, and by modeling that stewardship and solidarity in the day-to-day operations of our school.

EDUCATION

"Education in environmental responsibility can encourage ways of acting which directly and significantly affect the world around us" (Laudato Si, 211). As Jesuit educators, we will integrate environmental learning and care for all of God's creation into our mission to educate the whole person and to form men and women for and with others.

STEWARDSHIP

Mindful of our role as stewards of creation, we will seek ways to reduce our use of non-renewable resources and will demonstrate care for our common home by making our commitment to sustainability an integral part of planning, construction, renovation, and operation of buildings on campus. We have—and will continue to—introduce practices that conserve water, promote efficient energy use, limit landfill waste, and expand our recycling initiatives and use of fair trade and organic waste products. We have developed a five-year sustainability plan which identifies various initiatives further to reduce our energy consumption and CO2 generation.

Our long-term goal is to achieve climate neutrality.

SOLIDARITY

"The world is God's loving gift, and we are called quietly to imitate his generosity in self-sacrifice and good works" (Laudato Si, 220). Care for creation is part of Bellarmine's commitment to live according to the pattern of service inaugurated by Jesus Christ.

As such, our community commits to making service to our common home an integral part of our commitment to the local and global community through direct action and simplicity of means.

"The universe unfolds in God, who fills it completely. Hence, there is a mystical meaning to be found in a leaf, in a mountain trail, in a dewdrop, in a poor person's face. The ideal is not only to pass from the exterior to the interior to discover the action of God in the soul, but also to discover God in all things" (Laudato Si, 233).

Bellarmino's official school colors are blue and white, but there is quite a bit of "green" on campus these days as the school has made great strides to reduce its carbon footprint through a variety of sustainability initiatives.

Such efforts are occurring in the wake of Pope Francis's May 2015 Laudato Si' Encyclical Letter, On Care for Our Common Home, that included his message: "It is urgent to develop policies to reduce emissions of carbon dioxide and highly polluting gases."

Among the ways Bellarmine has been going "green" is the school's Tecogen 75kw co-generator, which began operating in early August 2018. The generator will provide both electricity and heat to maintain the pool temperature throughout the year. Electrical production through the device resulted in an estimated $4,000 in net energy savings in just its first two weeks of operation. The projected energy savings through the co-generator is $100,000 per year throughout its 20-year life expectancy.

Bellarmino has also entered into a contract to install a 203kw solar PV system on the roofs of the Patrick Wayne Valley Memorial Gym and the Patricia and Stephen Schott Athletic Center. This system is the first of several planned phases, and is expected to generate 21 percent of the energy for the main campus from a renewable source by the end of this calendar year.

"Both the co-generator and solar PV systems are important steps in support of our long-term institutional goal to achieve carbon neutrality," said Bellarmine CFO Ron Miller. "It also provides an opportunity to reinforce to our staff and students the importance of ecological stewardship and solidarity with creation, and modeling our day-to-day operations accordingly."

In addition to reducing the school's carbon footprint by 567 metric tons, efforts to date have resulted in an overall seven percent cost reduction since Fiscal Year 2014-2015.

Message from the Chairman of the Board of Trustees

As the new chairman of the Board of Trustees, I want to extend my deep appreciation and gratitude to each of you who has contributed to Bellarmine's financial needs over the past year, as evidenced in this Annual Report of Giving.

Bellarmino's ability to continue to provide to our youth one of the most outstanding Jesuit high school educational experiences available in modern society is directly related to the generosity of its supporters, especially those listed in this report. The confidence in our Jesuit mission to educate our young men to be prepared to meet the challenges of our modern world, exhibited by the generosity of our parents, alumni, friends, foundations, organizations, and even our students themselves, is a testament to Bellarmine's success in forming "men for and with others."

As we all appreciate, Bellarmine's mission could never be accomplished without the outstanding dedication of Jesuit and lay faculty and staff, particularly the excellent leadership of our president, Chris Meyercord '88, our principal, Kristina Luscher, and our Jesuit advisors, Father Mario Prietto, S.J. and Father Jerry Wade, S.J., among others. I want to also express appreciation for the dedicated services of Jesuit and lay members of the Board of Trustees, especially my predecessor, Andrew Moley '82, and current vice-chair Matt Medeiros, as well as our Board of Regents, led by chair Andy Schatzman, and former vice-chair Pat Arnold '84.

Thank you all for making a positive difference in the lives of our students.

Sincerely,

Andrew Moley '82 fondly recalls his time as a Bell. “Outside of class, my favorite memories are creating a nascent KBEL radio station by playing music at lunch via speakers off the back of my friend Kevin Swanson’s truck, going to football games our senior year when we went undefeated, rowing with the Los Gatos Rowing Club, the junior year retreat and the letter we wrote to ourselves and then received decades later, and working hard to avoid Fr. Reese on days when I didn’t wear socks to school.”

This remarkable Bellarmine alumnus credits his Jesuit education for making a difference in his life, both personally and professionally. “The Bellarmine/Jesuit education opened my eyes to questioning more and welcoming viewpoints other than my own and to looking for the good in everyone. It comes in handy at all times when managing and dealing with people. Being a man for others has also resonated across my life.” Additionally, he cites Fr. Ed Reese, S.J., as being his biggest influence, and with whom Andrew and the entire Moley family enjoy a friendship now in its fourth decade.

Andrew and his wife of more than 25 years, Cathy, have been generous and dedicated supporters of Bellarmine in a variety of ways. Andrew is the immediate past chair of the Board of Trustees, on which he has served since 2013. Prior to being elected as a Trustee, Andrew served on the Board of Regents beginning in 2003.

“I find Bellarmine to be a very rejuvenating place. Interacting with people who have committed their careers, or their lives in the case of the Jesuits, to the mission of molding men and women for others is a welcome change from the day-to-day effort of running a for-profit business,” Andrew noted. “Bellarmine and the Jesuits have been incredibly valuable in my life, so if I can apply some of my time to assisting in the missions of both, that’s an effort more than worth it for me.”

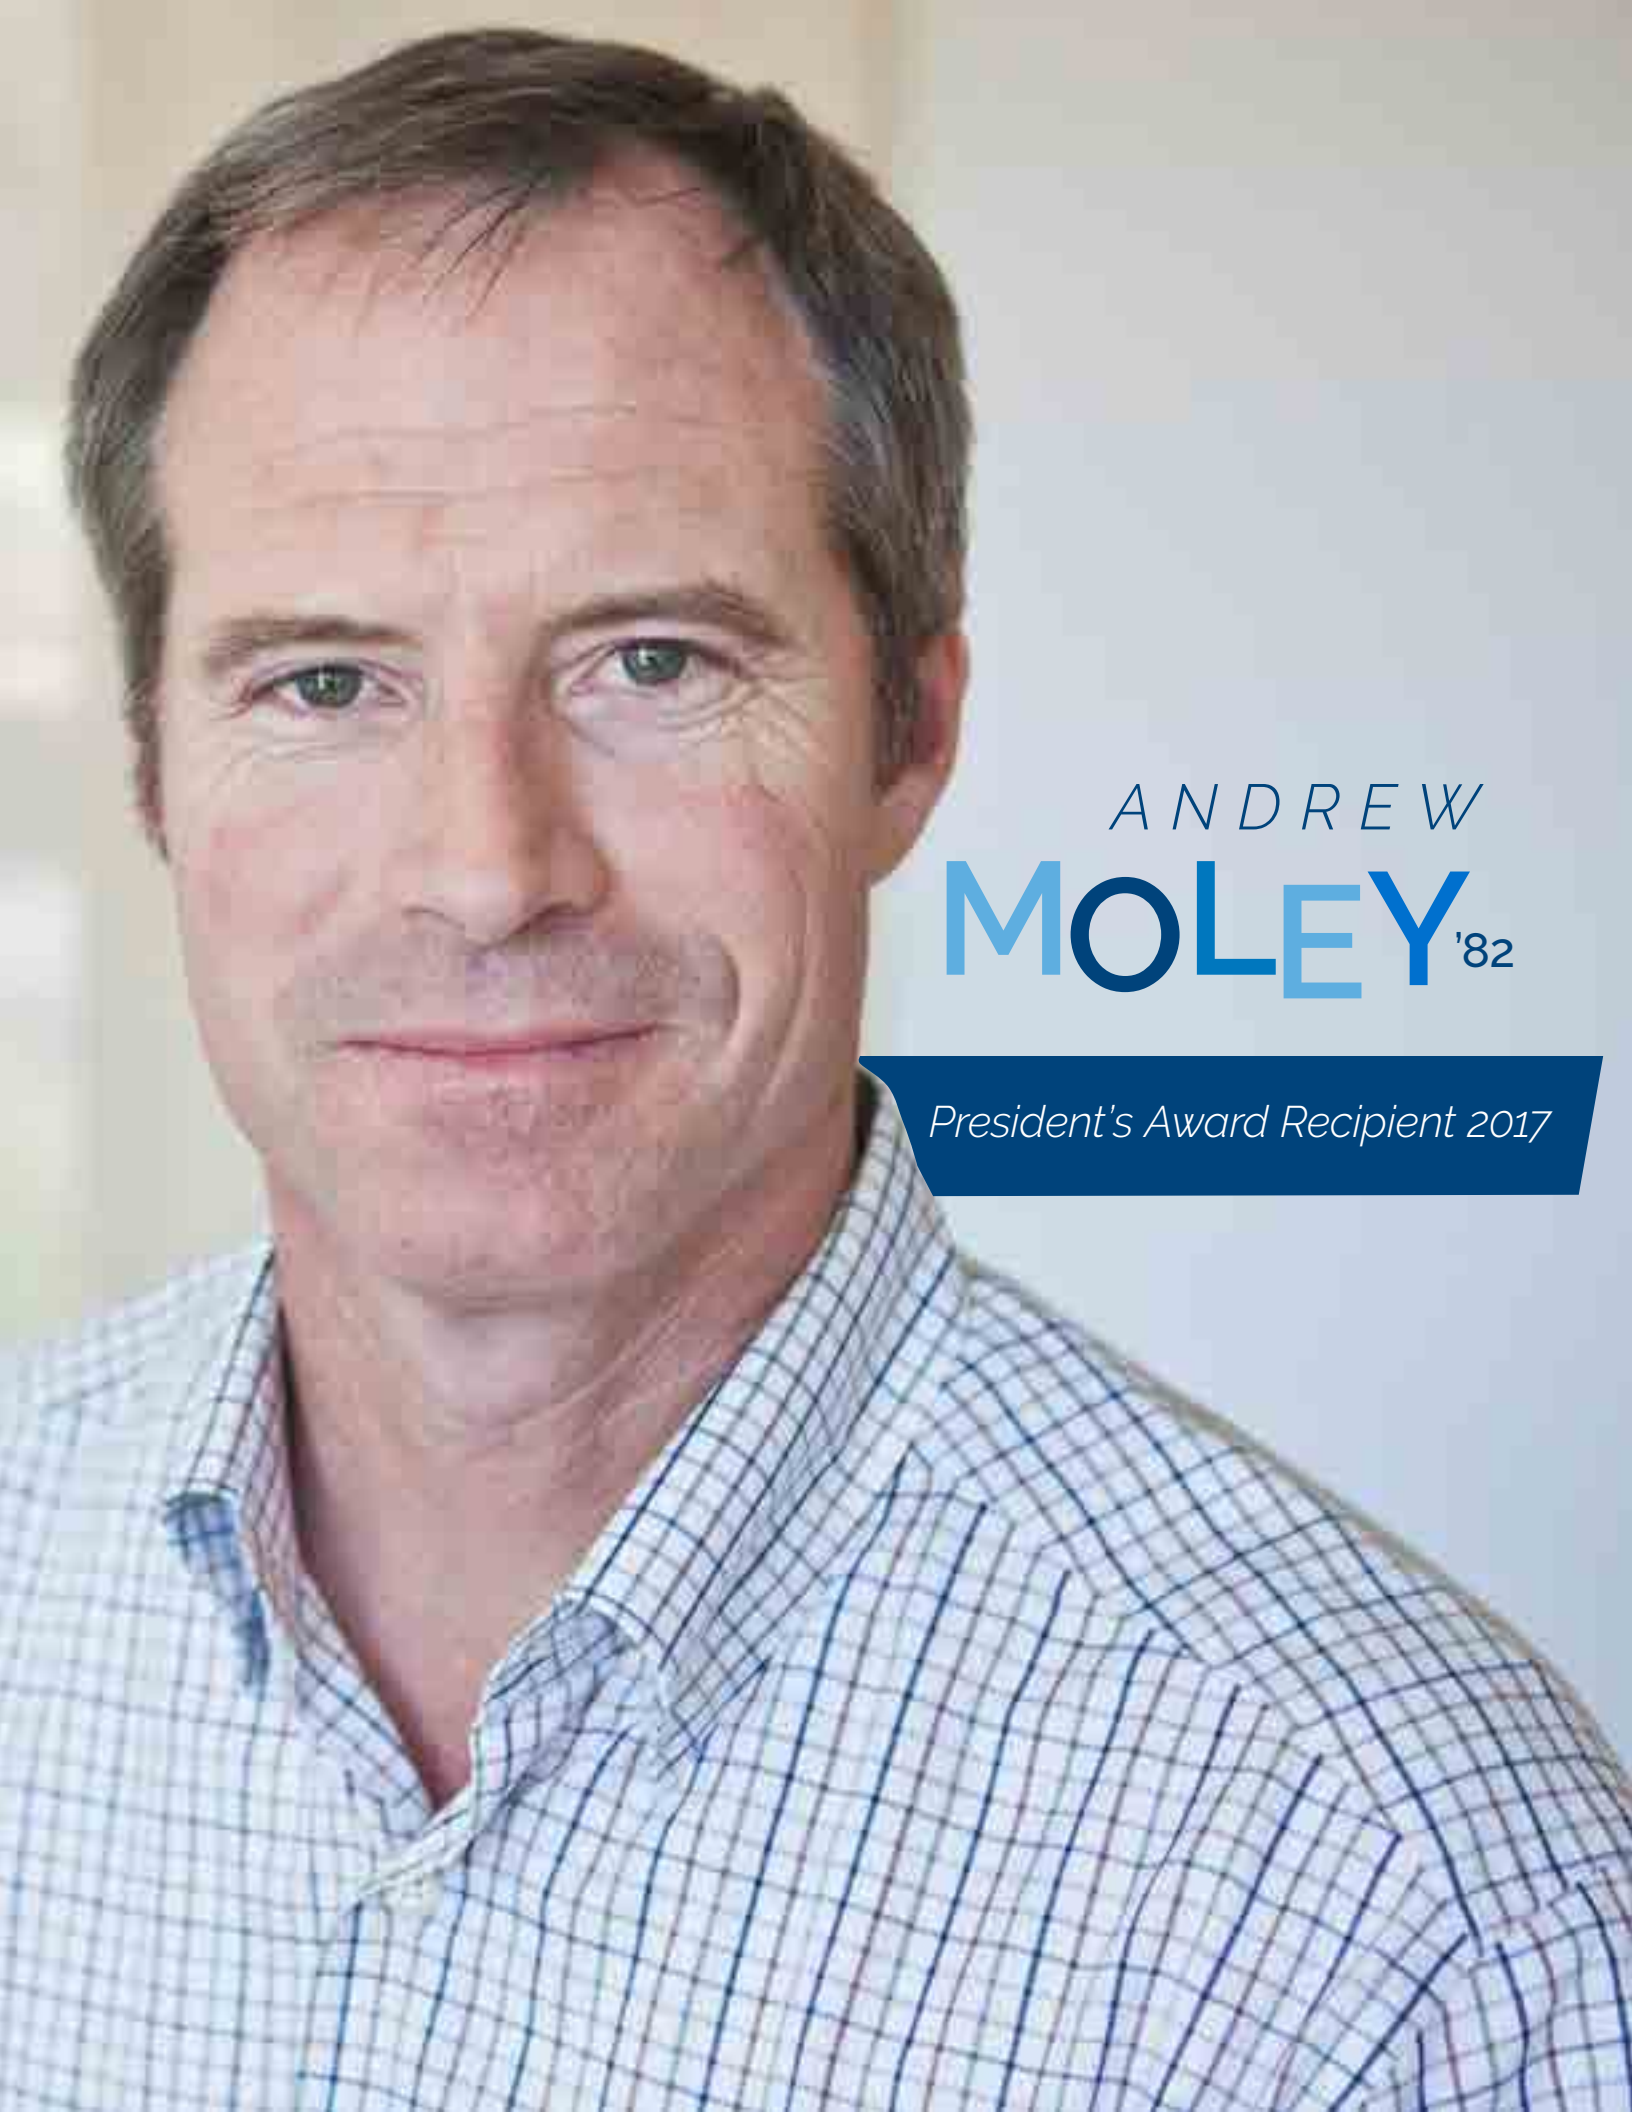

Andrew’s philosophy of philanthropy may be summarized in the phrase, “To change one life is to change the world.” That spirit of goodness extends beyond Bellarmine. “Cathy and I have been incredibly blessed in our education and other opportunities we have had,” said Andrew. “We try to focus our philanthropy on enabling access for others to similar educational experiences. We also look for other organizations that can make a fundamental difference for people on an individual basis.” Andrew and Cathy support their alma maters, as well as the schools of their daughters, Caroline, Kate, and Claire. Andrew serves on the Stanford Athletic Board and was previously on the Management Board of the Stanford Graduate School of Business.

Bellarmino has benefited greatly from Andrew’s leadership skills and business acumen. He holds an MBA from Stanford University Graduate School of Business and a BS in Economics from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. As operating partner and CFO at Lightspeed Venture Partners, an early-stage venture capital firm focused on accelerating disruptive innovations and trends in the Enterprise and Consumer sectors, Andrew leads its operational activities, including overall responsibility for its financial reporting. He has helped develop both public and private companies throughout his career, including being CFO of three venture-backed startups: eGreetings Network, where he took the company public in 1999 and later became its CEO until its sale to American Greetings in 2001; CMC Industries, a publicly-traded electronics manufacturing services company; and Mercer Management Consulting, where he began his career.

“Throughout his many years on the Board, Andrew has been an incredible asset. He has a remarkable knack for taking complex financial information and presenting it in a way that helps us to look at the key questions, and understand where we need to focus,” said Chris Meyercord '88, president of Bellarmine. “Andrew’s leadership has been a key reason for the very strong footing on which the school finds itself today.”

We are grateful to Andrew for the many ways he has supported Bellarmine for more than 30 years, and we are appreciative that this very humble gentleman has allowed us to honor him as the recipient of the 2017 President’s Award.

The second annual BellsGive campaign, in honor of the school's Founders' Day, took place on May 8. The successful fundraising drive resulted in more than 1,400 donors contributing $228,641, which is a 7% increase from the previous year's Bells Give campaign, plus there was an additional $175,000 matching gift provided by the generosity of Esther and Pat Arnold '84. Among the contributors were 278 new donors. We are grateful to all who supported Bellarmine through this initiative, and to members of the Bellarmine Jesuit Community who were good sports in participating in various videos that parodied the television program "Friends." Go Bells!

CURRENT STUDENT GIVING

Listed below are the names of Bellarmine students who made a financial contribution to the school during Fiscal Year 2017-2018. Such support by current students sets an outstanding example for their peers and for alumni, as their gift—at any level—represents the importance of giving back to the school from which they have benefited greatly. (NOTE: Although members of the Class of 2018 were students during Fiscal Year 2017-2018, they are listed as alumni in this Annual Report).

Leaving a Legacy and Making a Difference

Planned Giving by Bill Colucci, Esq. '82, Director of Planned Giving

At this special time of the year, I thought it would be a good time to provide a reminder or two regarding estate planning. Of course, by doing so I'm hoping you will keep Bellarmine in mind when you are crafting your plan. Whether you are an alum, past parent, current parent, or friend of Bellarmine, your support of our school with a legacy gift allows us to continue the good work that we do here forming men for and with others.

If you haven't thought about your estate planning documents in a while (or at all), now is a good time to make sure your Trust or Will is up to date and that any power of attorney or medical directive you have reflects your current wishes.

Wills and Trusts can be tricky documents, and by "tricky" I don't mean complicated. What I've found is that it's easy to get people to talk about estate planning documents, but it can be a challenge to get them to put them in place. As one who has encountered situations where a person neglected their estate planning, I can attest to the fact that family members would have preferred the individual to have left a clear (and properly executed) plan for the disposition of assets.

Additionally, by executing a Power of Attorney and an Advanced Health Care Directive now in preparation for when you might need that extra bit of help in handling your business affairs or health situation, you and your family will gain some peace of mind.

As you review your documents or contemplate drawing up new ones, we would encourage you to consider including a gift to Bellarmine as part of that plan. Bequests from Wills and Trusts, as well as other gifts made by generous alumni and friends such as yourself, have been instrumental in strengthening and sustaining Bellarmine over the years. The continuation and expansion of this tradition of giving will contribute to Bellarmine's future financial fitness.

Legacy gifts are critical to support the work we do here in the education and formation of our students as those gifts help build and maintain our tuition assistance and program endowments. The income from these endowments allows us to maintain and develop the outstanding academic and co-curricular programs for which Bellarmine is known.

Chris Meyercord '88, Fr. Dick Cobb, S.J., Linda Polk, I.H. "Buck" Polk '54, Dennis Polk, Fr. Jerry Wade, S.J. '55.

A great example of such a legacy gift is Bellarmine's recent receipt of a gift from the estate of Terry Polk Turco and John Turco '47. The picture nearby shows Fr. Jerry Wade, S.J. '55, Fr. Dick Cobb, S.J., and our president Chris Meyercord '88 being presented with the thoughtful and generous gift from members of the Turco family. Their gift will be used in part to help our tuition assistance funding through the John E. Turco and Teresa Polk Turco Memorial Financial Aid Endowment. Such gifts help provide permanent funding for our tuition assistance program, which plays a vital role in our ability to attract and retain a student body that reflects our Silicon Valley (or, depending on your age, Valley of Heart's Delight) community.

In addition, a portion of their gift will go to help support our science programs. This gift will thus have an impact on almost all of our students. We are very grateful for the generosity of Terry and John Turco '47 and for the continued support of their family in making this gift.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions, or if you need additional estate or gift planning information.

Alumni Council

Among the many groups providing support to Bellarmine in a variety of ways is the school's Alumni Council, comprised of 30 members of alumni, spanning six decades of class years, who remain actively engaged in the life of their alma mater.

The purpose of the Bellarmine College Preparatory Alumni Council is to develop and maintain alumni interest in, advocacy of, and support for the programs and future of the school. This purpose is fulfilled in many ways, including by sponsoring activities and programs which generate good will and foster cordial relations for the school among alumni; developing a succession of persons who will volunteer their time and service to assist the school in its work and to enlist alumni in specific beneficial tasks; assisting in the maintenance of effective communications and information with and by alumni; cooperating with the school's president and director of Alumni Relations when alumni assistance may be beneficial for students, faculty, staff, or Regents and Trustees in educational, extracurricular, religious, or student affairs; advocating the principles, goals, and objectives of the Jesuit educational system; promoting and projecting the school in the greater area which the school serves for the purpose of encouraging new student interest and applications; and performing any other mutually-agreeable tasks that can benefit the school.

"Through the work of so many selfless and loyal Alumni Council members over the years, the Council continues to play a vital role in the life of our Bellarmine Community by engaging hundreds of alumni through various events and activities," said Matt Zuniga '06, director of Alumni Relations. "The Council is an extension of the Alumni Office, and we are grateful to have such a dedicated group of men who actively learn and know the state of the school and its future goals, and communicate that knowledge to all alumni."

Current Alumni Council leadership includes Steve Giachetti '92, president; and Joe Gentzkow '01, vice president. Fr. Dick Cobb, S.J. serves as chaplain. Among the many events in which the Alumni Council and its members are instrumental are the Annual Golf Classic, Alumni Bocce Tournament, Alumni Tailgate, and Sacred Heart Nativity Schools tutoring program.

MISSION STATEMENT

Bellarmino College Preparatory is a community of men and women gathered together by God for the purpose of educating the student to seek justice and truth throughout his life. We are a Catholic school in the tradition of St. Ignatius of Loyola, the Founder of the Society of Jesus. As such, our entire school program is dedicated to forming “Men For and With Others” – persons whose lives will be dedicated to bringing all their God-given talents to fullness and to living according to the pattern of service inaugurated by Jesus Christ.
